

It is a shame that telemarketers have the right to fight a law that has been put in place protecting the privacy of a person's home. I got in the habit of letting my answering machine pick up all calls. There is no reason for a person's home to be invaded with unsolicited phone calls just for the sake of pushy telemarketers.